TOWN OF NEWMARKET CHOOSES ARCTIC SNOWPLOWS

Newmarket, Ontario – Cummins Hydraulics, a distributor for Canadian snow removal equipment manufacturer, Arctic Snowplows, has been awarded an exclusive contract to provide snow removal equipment for the Town of Newmarket.

Cummins Hydraulics is a local, family owned business that sells and services hydraulic and industrial components. Under the terms of the contract, they will provide Arctic snow removal equipment to the municipality for at least five years.

“Our family has been serving York Region for nearly 40 years, and people are aware of our commitment to service, says James Cummins, owner of Cummins Hydraulics. “We have focused on offering Arctic Snowplows because of their proven performance, durability and reliability, and because they offer the very best warranty in the business.”

Daniel Armstrong, President of Arctic Snowplows, was delighted to learn that Cummins Hydraulics had been awarded the contract to provide Arctic Snowplows.

“Cummins Hydraulics’ reputation for service is impeccable. We are fortunate to have them as a partner in providing the only Canadian made snowplows for the small and medium truck market,” said Mr. Armstrong.

Arctic Snowplows, a Canadian company founded in 1969, offers an extensive line of snowplows, plow partners and salt spreaders. Their signature orange polyethylene and steel products are well known for offering technical innovation and durability. Arctic’s plows are covered by the longest warranty offered in the North American market.
